TAFT CHARGES ROLLBACK CUTS MEAT SUPPLY

G.O.P. Senator and OPA Head Have Lively Exchange at Congressional Hearing.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16— Chester Bowles' attempts of Price Administrator Prentiss Brown to roll back prices, Senator Taft (R., O.) told Brown at a congressional hearing today that because of "demoralization" of markets he was not going to have any part for rollbacks in the next year.

The senator contended that efforts of the office of price administration (OPA) to roll back prices ordered by packers with the removal of subsidies had virtually halted worker purchases on all of the major meat markets in the country.

Bowles defending plans for subsidy payments to hold prices down in testimony before the senate banking committee, replied that inadequate large meat purchases by the Army are to blame for increased civilian shortage, rather than confusion over the roll back proposal. He said the Army and Navy now are taking 45 per cent of the country's meat supply.

Testifying before the senate banking committee which is considering prohibiting or limiting federal subsidy payments, Brown said at one point that he considered the price control act provisions for such payments only to encourage production.

Cites Choice

"But," he added, "considering the limitations of the act, the choice of the price administrator is this: shall we in order to bring the price of beef, for example, to the Sept. 15, 1942, levels, roll back the price to parity or subsidize?"

In the midst of a controversy with Senator Taft however, Brown contended that the price control act "provides that the price administrator may subsidize if he has the money."

"We have definite limitations on us," the OPA chief asserted, "and it isn't to be construed that congress is telling us to do the impossible thing."

Observing that a meat shortage exists in many communities, Taft remarked that it is "simply because the rollback is so impossible to administer."

"The inefficient and ineffective way the rollback has been operated is producing the shortage," he said. "The packers are not buying meat because they don't know whether they will get the subsidy."

"They are going to get it and they know it," replied Brown.

Possible Cost Figures

President Roosevelt, who told a press conference yesterday that if congressional critics of the subsidy idea knew of a better way to break inflation they could come out with it, mentioned $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 as the possible cost.

These were just figures he had

RABAUL HIT BY ALLIED BOMBS

Two-Hour Attack Waged on Jap Base in New Britain; Huge Fires Started.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 16 — Fires which could be seen 80 miles away and a series of violent explosions were started among Japanese planes on Lakunai airdrome, Rabaul, New Britain, yesterday by 23 tons of allied bombs.

Increasing to 135 tons the bomb weight to fall on Rabaul's airfields during four raids made within six days, 19 Liberators joined in the latest attack and all got home safely after weathering intense anti-aircraft fire and the weak opposition of seven enemy night fighters.

(Rabaul, on the extreme northern tip of New Britain, is second only to Truk as both an air and shipping base of the enemy. Recently Charles H. McMurtry, Associated Press war correspondent at Honolulu, wrote concerning possible military strategy in the southwest Pacific that Rabaul might well become the next allied major objective, pointing out that its seizure would bypass Japanese holdings between it and allied-held Guadalcanal in the Solomons).

For two hours, beginning shortly before midnight June 14, the Liberators kept their bomb bays opening over Lakunai. Later, allied fliers on reconnaissance over the field in daylight hours reported all planes crowded into one area with workmen busy on the runways. This was taken as an indication that the latest raid dealt extensive damage. The reconnaissance fliers counted 254 Japanese aircraft on three Rabaul airdromes but whether they were all in working order was another matter.

HUGE FUND FOR 18 AGENCIES RECOMMENDED

$2,939,441,504 Appropriation Bill Ready for Congress; Home Front Reviewed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — A $2,939,441,504 omnibus appropriations bill, bundling up the great needs of 18 government war agencies, was turned over to congress today as the nation's economic war chiefs told an epic story of American progress in the battle of the home front.

It was the first annual report, the balance sheet for the past year and the budget sheet for the next for such war-born bureaus as the office of price administration (OPA), the war production board (WPB), censorship, the office of war information (OWI), and the war shipping administration (WSA).

Praise and Criticism

Spread over 2,100 printed pages of testimony were the explanations of top officials in charge of directing the country's economic life, from war production to consumer prices. There was praise and criticism from the house appropriations committee which approved their 1944 allocations with these words:

"Great credit is due the war agencies for what has been accomplished. Mistakes have been made and will be made. They are to be expected. There has been lost motion. The speed of action would not have been attained without it.

"Improvements have been made and will continue to be made in the functioning of the war agencies. Constructive criticism has been helpful. It should continue and will be welcomed by the agencies. The type of criticism which serves only to create public distrust is not helpful to the war effort."

Part of that criticism was reflected in the accompanying appropriations bill. Few of the agencies escaped reductions as the committee inquired into such details as the need for expanding staffs, why the OPA's renting division should have used 80 tons of carbon paper.

An additional $18,000,000 was provided for contract authorizations.

A guard company of 10 soldiers from Camp Millard near Bucyrus, a railroad engineers station, took up posts shortly before noon and will be on duty until tomorrow morning. First Sgt. Vernon Andersen of West Central, Minn., is in charge of the guards.

Although some members of the corps of engineers at the Scioto Ordnance Plant and Camp Millard have assisted in making arrangements for the display, it is primarily a project of the corps of engineers at the Marion Engineer Depot. All equipment on display, with the exception of a jeep, a ton and a half truck and a five-ton truck brought here from Camp Millard, was furnished by the depot.

RAF STRIKES AT EUROPE 5TH NIGHT IN ROW

Meanwhile, Speculation About Invasion Centers Around Syrian Border Closing.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 16 — The British announced that RAF bombers ranged the continent from Denmark to France last night as the renewed allied aerial offensive continued through its fifth successive night, and the Germans indicated some of the raiders were near Berlin.

Meanwhile, various reports suggested invasion preparations from one end of the Mediterranean to the other and steadily mounting tide nervousness at the imminent prospect.

A DNB broadcast recorded by The Associated Press said the reich capital had an alert lasting more than half an hour, but declared "there were no particular events, no damage and no casualties reported." The report was not immediately confirmed here.

RAF bombers ripped at enemy airfields, railway communications and water transport.

Over North Germany

The Berlin radio said allied bombers also were over north Germany last night and "isolated bombs caused insignificant damage." There was no immediate confirmation from British sources, however.

British sources said Berlin's alert probably was the result of British reconnaissance flights in which some bombs may have been dropped.

Axis broadcasters declared a great invasion fleet was massing in the western half of the Mediterranean, and from semi-official sources in Ankara came a report that the allies had closed Syria's frontier with Turkey.

The Berlin radio, however, in a broadcast of Ankara dispatches asserted the Turkish-Syrian frontier was not closed and that the Istanbul-Baghdad train was running as usual.

"All that has been done is that frontier control has been made more strict" with particular attention to persons bearing Syrian or Iraq visas," the radio said.

Official allied sources kept mum.

See Possible Invasion Move

Unofficial observers suggested the Ankara announcement might indicate that the British Ninth and Tenth armies and U. S. troops that have been quietly building up strength in Syria, Palestine, Iraq and Iran and might now be moving or planning to move suddenly.

The Daily Herald quoted German reports that the allies had built up an "invasion army" in Syria.

The British broadcasting corporation interpreted closing of the 350-mile border as a move "to check leakage of information from Syria and Palestine to Germany through Turkey."

In an interview in Ankara last night with Frank C. O'Brien of The Associated Press, Premier Saracoglu gave no light on the Syrian border question. He said Turkey would continue the strictest vigilance toward neutrality. He indicated his government was impressed with American conduct of the war and expressed surprise that recent Mediterranean events moved so swiftly.

A broadcast by the Leningrad radio, recorded here by the ministry of information, raised the possibility meanwhile that allied strategy may be to strike at axis Europe from several directions at once.

"There can be no doubt that the blow against Hitlerite Germany from the west will coincide with a mighty crushing blow of the Red Army from the east," the Leningrad report said.

NEW YORK CITY PROBE ORDERED

Affairs Under LaGuardia To Be Investigated; Council Authorizes Action.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—In an unprecedented early morning meeting, the New York City council today voted a resolution calling for a sweeping investigation of the affairs of all city departments under Mayor F. H. La Guardia.

The resolution, passed by a vote of 18 to 5 with one councilman not voting provides for a committee of seven council members with powers to investigate "any matters relating to the property, affairs or government of the city or of the county within the city."

The vote was taken after the Democratic majority overruled City Council President Newbold Morris' ruling that the meeting, which started at 12:01 a. m., was illegal.

Sharp Words Exchanged

Morris engaged in a bitter exchange with Councilman Walter R. Hart, Brooklyn Democrat who sponsored the measure, and the council, by a 18 to 4 vote, censured Morris.

Hart was mentioned in charges recently made by Commissioner of Investigations William B. Herlands which brought about trial of former Deputy Comptroller Milton Solomon, accused of attempting to obtain an $8,000 fee from a stirrup pump dealer with a promise to influence city council legislation.

Solomon was acquitted of the charges.

Hart indicated that inquiry would be made into the department of sanitation, budget funds

MONARCH SEES TROOPS, LAUDS EISENHOWER

Axis Sounds New Alarms Up and Down Mediterranean Areas.

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

King George VI has arrived secretly in North Africa on what may be a final "pre-zero hour" visit to the British and American armies girding for an invasion of southern Europe.

While axis invasion alarms rang with peak intensity up and down the Mediterranean, ranging from Gibraltar to the Turkish-Syrian frontier, allied headquarters announced that the king had already inspected his victorious armed forces in the field and bestowed on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the insignia of Knight of the Grand Cross, Order of the Bath.

It was the monarch's first trip to an active war theater since he visited the British army in France early in 1940, a few months before Adolf Hitler's armies swept into France and the low countries on the march that led to Dunkirk.

Today the situation was reversed, with the axis nervously awaiting the next allied blow.

Axis Version of Developments

Enemy broadcasts variously reported that a great allied invasion fleet was massing in the western half of the Mediterranean, that the United Nations had built up an "invasion army" in Syria, and that Britain was "trying to bring Turkey in on her side but the Turk will not be pressed."

Dispatches from La Linea, Spain, said another big allied convoy had entered Gibraltar harbor, and an Italian communique reported that axis planes were attacking allied ships off the Algerian coast and landing boats off Pantelleria.

Other events at-a-glance:

Western air war—RAF night raiders blast Nazi targets from Denmark to Brittany; German report allied bombers also near Berlin.

Russia—Leningrad broadcast declares Red armies set to hit Germany a "mighty crushing blow" from the east, synchronized with allied invasion of Europe; Soviet troops again beat off strong Nazi assaults in Orel sector.

Japan—Premier Tojo warns big British-American offensive is near, says war situation becoming "increasingly tense."

Southwest Pacific—Gen. MacArthur's bombers drop 23 more tons of explosives on Japanese airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain; hint Rabaul may be next major allied objective; allied troops thrust to area 90 miles northwest of Lae, New Guinea.

Burma—Allied warplanes hammer five Japanese bases, blast enemy from Arakan front to Mandalay.

China—Chinese troops press offensive on upper Yangtze river, disrupt rail communications to Japanese base at Yochow.

WAR CUTS LIQUOR DEALER LIST IN OHIO

Army Calls, Gasoline Rationing Among Causes of Drop.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—Wartime conditions caused more than 1,000 Ohioans to give up tavern keepers' licenses during the first four months of 1943, liquor department records showed today.

Renewals of the eight most popular types of beer and liquor permits dropped to 9,212 during the January to May period, a decline of 1,093 from the total for the same period last year. This cost the state $182,700 in license fees, James W. Blair, department permit chief, disclosed.

State Liquor Director Don Fisher said many of 783 tavern keepers who failed to obtain licenses to sell 3.2 or beer of higher alcoholic content were located in outlying districts and were forced out of business by gasoline and tire rationing.

Others gave up their businesses because they were inducted into the armed forces, he added.

Girl Scouts Complete Arrangements for Opening of July Sessions.

A scene depicting Girl Scout day camp activities and a tin can cookery display are now being shown in the windows of a vacant storeroom at 119 West Center street. Miss Marguerite Gehring, a member of the camp committee, is in charge of the display.

The display on tin can cookery reveals one way the Girl Scouts will cook at Day Camp. On display in the window is a frying pan, a reflector oven, water pail and stove made of tin cans. An emergency wartime fuel is also on display. It is a rolled newspaper boiled in paraffin with a cotton string wick.

Because of the scarcity of tin cans, the girls are taking good care of the utensils they made at day camp last year. In spite of wartime shortages, however, there will be many activities for girls at the camp, which will be in session every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday in July, Mrs. E. E. Holt, chairman of the camp committee, announced. The activities include simple campcraft, hiking, nature lore, outdoor cooking, dramatics, group singing, handicraft and a bicycling unit for older girls.

The camp will be located south of Marion on the Smeltzer road on the Orla Barks farm.

Camp hours will be from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Executive secretary of the council, Edith T. Treat, will be camp director. Girl Scout leaders and program consultants will be on the staff and a trained first aider will be on duty at all times.

For those girls whose registrations are in the Girl Scout office by July 1 the camp fee will be $1 for the season. For all others, the fee will be 10 cents per day. Girls must have the consent of both parents before they will be permitted to attend day camp.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—The New York Times said yesterday President Roosevelt's move in sending to the senate for confirmation as United States attorney for the southern district of New York the name of James B. M. McNally was interpreted here "as an almost open declaration of a fourth term candidacy by the President."

McNally, a personal friend of Michael J. Kennedy Jr., Tammany leader, is the man J. Tammany Hall's last point rise.

"Tammany gratified by the step, and practical enough to interpret it as 'you can Democrat' national president," the Times said in a page one news story.

BUSES ROLLING

Keep Production Rolling

YOU CAN HELP BUS TRANSPORTATION do its full wartime job by timing your travel wisely — going before or after the July and August rush period, departing and returning on mid-week days rather than on week-ends, getting tickets and information in advance, taking less baggage than usual.

• Buses bound for busy war plants are doing one of their most vital jobs — moving the manpower that keeps the assembly lines moving. Taking men and women to their work in factories or on farms, carrying travelers on trips essential to the war effort, transporting selectees and men in uniform — that's how Greyhound is serving the home-front today.

Almost as important as getting war workers to work is getting them away from work when "civilian furloughs" are in order—when rest and change are needed to get these men and women back to top efficiency.

Anti-Strike Bill Favored by Public, Surveys Show

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., June 16—The Connally-Smith anti-strike bill incorporates many provisions for curbing labor unions which the American public has long considered necessary. At the same time, measure, in the form passed by the joint conference committee of houses of congress, omits certain things which the majority of American voters want.

Public opinion studies brought up to date this week by the Institute, the country's attitude toward labor legislation stands today as follows:

1. BANNING OF STRIKES

By an overwhelming majority—81 per cent in a survey just completed—the voters favor banning strikes in all war industries, not merely in those industries taken over by the government. Sentiment for legislation to outlaw strikes was overwhelming as long ago as 1940 when 72 per cent voted in a survey to curtail labor's right to strike in wartime.

2. INCITING STRIKES

The Connally-Smith bill provision for stiff penalties against anyone inciting a strike in a government-held plant has the support of more than three-fourths of the voting population. The latest survey showed 78 per cent in favor of making it a crime for anyone to urge workers to strike in such plants.

3. CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

The public has felt for some time that unions should be prohibited from making contributions to political campaign funds, just as corporations are forbidden. Even before the 1940 presidential campaign, a survey found the country two to one in favor of laws to curb union financial support of any political party. That is now one of the provisions in the bill in congress.

4. CLOSED SHOP

Under the present bill in congress, the War Labor Board is forbidden to authorize a closed shop or maintenance of union membership contracts.

The principle of the closed shop has never been accepted by the majority of American voters. Public opinion studies have found that it is opposed by 77 per cent. The average American believes that while a worker should have full right to join a union if he wishes to, he should never be required to join in order to get a job.

5. COOLING OFF PERIOD

The Connally-Smith bill provision for a 30-day cooling off period before any strike can be called in a non-government plant carries out a public desire which existed as far back as the spring of 1941, when proposals for a cooling off period met with the approval of nearly 9 per cent of every 10 voters interviewed in a survey.

6. FINANCIAL ACCOUNTABILITY

One item removed from the Connally-Smith bill is the joint conference would have required unions to register with the federal government and file regular financial reports with accurate information concerning initiation fees, dues, special assessments and the like.

If the public opinion had its way, that provision would be restored to the bill.

Financial accountability of unions is favored by an overwhelming majority—85 per cent in a recent study. Moreover, eight out of every ten union members interviewed in the survey likewise favor legislation to make unions publicize their financial dealings.

Little things that become

Big Things

THE U.S. ARMY Ordnance Department, early in 1942, asked one of our executives if we had a factory near a good supply of water, of sufficient size to make small calibre ammunition at the rate of many millions every twenty-four hours. We had such a factory on the Ohio River with enough feet of floor space.

"FROM CARS TO BULLETS FOR TOMMY GUNS, PISTOLS, REVOLVERS"

It was well placed near additional unused land and far enough from the city to allow the storage of powder and the loading and testing of ammunition.

The work of preparation was started immediately. The automobile machinery in the plant, which could not be used, was dismantled and put elsewhere. It was replaced by new and different equipment. A specialized laboratory was installed and staffed with engineers, metallurgists, and technicians drawn from our widely diversified staff. Production executives and specialists were also selected from our own personnel. While the factory was being prepared for production, the Frankford arsenal assisted the training of these production specialists who, in turn, were to train the workers and supervise the operation of the many departments of the plant.

The first finished ammunition produced in this newly organized plant went on test in May, 1942. The cartridge cases were then made of brass. Brass is an extremely vital war material. Could steel be used instead? Could steel be worked over the machinery and tools that were provided for the use of brass? Could the steel be treated to withstand the corrosion of a long sea voyage and to resist successfully the humidity of the tropics and the sub-zero temperatures of the Arctic? The U. S. Army Ordnance Department—and our own engineers, metallurgists and technicians believed it could. More engineering talent—this time chemists—were added to the laboratory staff and the larger and more complete Chrysler Corporation's laboratories, in Detroit, were also directed to the solution of this problem.

"COULD IT BE DONE WITH STEEL?"

The first of the new steel castings were made in the month of August, 1942. They were pretty good. Then began severe testing,—spraying with wet salt air, burying in salty mud marshes washed by the tide,—storing in hot damp rooms and open exposure to the weather,—plating with lacquer, copper, cadmium, nickel, chrome, zinc, silver, lead—dipping in dichromate, sealing with plastics. A vast cycle of experiments were tried and tested and the results compared. From all this effort came a standardized product made of steel, and approved for use on all the battle fronts.

The making of this ammunition is really the art of producing many pieces rapidly—many thousands per minute, every day, 6 days a week. Ninety-nine operations are performed to take each piece of ammunition from the lead, steel and powder stage to the formed, loaded, tested and packed, finished article—ready to shoot,—with every piece perfect in shape, finish, and firing efficiency.

We have made our first billion of this steel ammunition. Not that this is a top record for ammunition making but, to us, it is a milestone passed on the road to Victory. We will pass the second and third billion with much less emotion but we really got a thrill out of joining the ranks of the important producers of ammunition.

With this change to steel we release, with every billion rounds, thousands of tons of brass. This brass can now be used in war production where no other substitute is possible.

"A LITTLE THING BECAME BIG"

A finished round of ammunition weighs only a few ounces. Little things often do become really big and important.

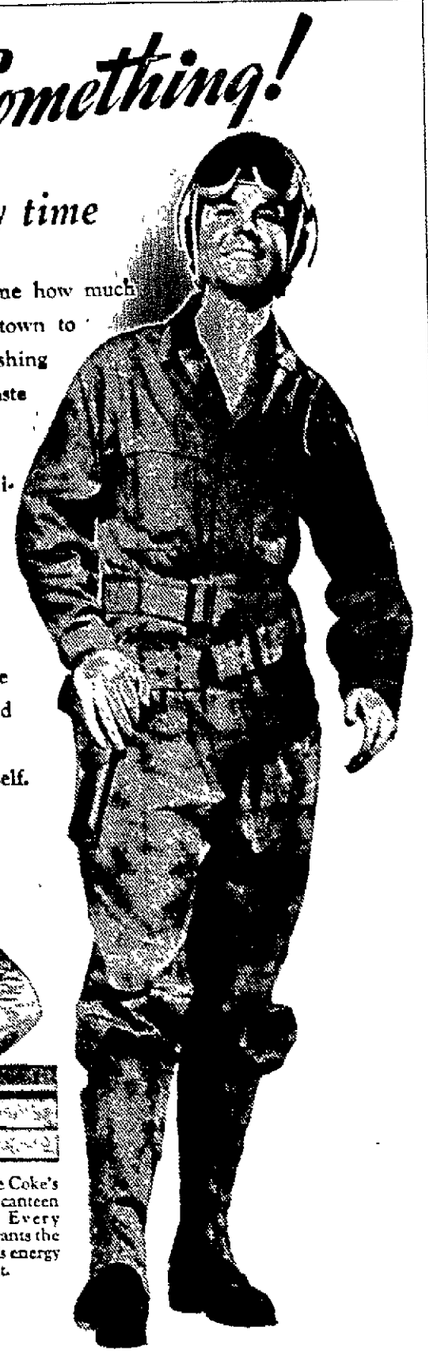
EVEN a general in Africa writes home how much he misses meeting the gang downtown to enjoy a Coca-Cola. Overseas, Coke is a refreshing remembrance of home. Men cherish its taste and refreshment.

The newspapers have been full of such incidents. Such as Bataan survivors getting hold of some fruit, eggs and Coca-Cola. Mighty welcome fare to them, they said.

These men, like yourself, have found in ice-cold Coca-Cola all the difference between something really refreshing and just something to drink. Yes, the only thing like Coca-Cola is Coca-Cola, itself.



Word that "the Coke's in" packs any canteen these days. Every good soldier wants the drink that adds energy to refreshment.

AXIS-U.S. PLANE LOSS RATIO 6-1

American Air Forces Issue First Review of Activities; 18 Big Missions Listed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The axis is losing six planes for every American four-engined bomber shot down over Europe, the war department says, and this sign of intensified air combat placed new emphasis today on Prime Minister Churchill's remark that bombing Germany out of the war was well worth trying.

The stepped-up tempo of the Eighth U. S. Air Force, operating out of England—prompted the department yesterday to the unusual—an announcement of its accomplishments in recent weeks. It was the first statement of this kind issued by the war department since the United States entered the global conflict.

The statement disclosed:

1—That U. S. Air Forces had made 18 heavy bombardment missions against targets within Germany itself, 11 of them since May 14.

2—U. S. planes based in England flew 1,600 sorties (a sorue is a flight by one plane) with four-engined bombers, in daylight precision attacks on industrial centers, naval bases and war plants.

3—The American bombers lost 106 planes in this all-out campaign but shot down 571 German craft, many of them no doubt fighters, probably destroyed 187 more, and damaged 231 in combat.

The war department listed these milestones in the career of the U. S. air command under Major General Ira C. Eaker:

Jan. 27 — Attacks on Germany proper for the first time; hits on docks and naval base installations at Wilhelmshaven.

Feb. 4 — Heavy damage to submarine base at Emden.

Feb. 26 — Hits on entire target area of Wilhelmshaven.

March 4 — Direct hits on rail yards at Hamm.

March 18 — Severe damage to seven of 15 U-boat hulls on slips at Vegesack, only two escaping some sort of injury; powerhouse almost completely destroyed.

March 22—Destruction of quays, railways, docks and supply buildings at Wilhelmshaven.

April 17 — Damage to Focke-Wulf factory—output of the plant may have been completely stopped for a period.

May 14-19—Damage widespread at Kiel, the great naval base.

DRIVER ADMITS SALE OF TRACTOR WHEEL

Sentenced on Charge of Auto Parts Theft.

Robert Johnston, 24, of Pittsburgh, Pa., arrested by city police Friday on a charge of theft of auto parts, was sentenced to six months in the Columbus workhouse in municipal court yesterday after he pleaded guilty.

Johnston gave police the following account of incidents leading up to his arrest:

He was hauling a shipment of steel to Chicago for a Pittsburgh merchant last week. The steel was being carried in a trailer attached to a tractor. Headed for Chicago via the Lake Erie route, he stopped in Sandusky where he said he drank heavily. While under the influence of liquor he detached the trailer from the tractor and headed south with the tractor, finally stopping in Marion.

When he first arrived here he found a prospective auto parts buyer and sold a tire and wheel off the tractor, which belonged to his Pittsburgh employer.

City police learned of the illegal sale and a search for Johnston ensued. He was finally found early Friday morning on a downtown street and taken to city prison where he was held until his arraignment in municipal court yesterday.

The Limited Right To Strike

THE Connally-Smith bill, which reflects public opinion against further abuses in wartime of the right to strike, is being assailed bitterly by spokesmen for organized labor. Yet, to a considerable degree, the proposal, now awaiting executive signature to become law, is the product of their own leadership.

These spokesmen created abundant goodwill for the labor movement when they pledged themselves against striking in wartime. They progressively frittered away that goodwill until congress, which previously had no intention of making any of their activities illegal, decided the time was ripe for legislative action.

The right to engage in collective bargaining and the right to strike are well established in the United States; they are not, however, so well established that they must be permitted to interfere with the successful prosecution of war. In that respect, they are subject to the same limitations that are imposed on rights in general. Congress has been forced to do something to relieve a situation that has done more to hurt morale than any single problem created by war conditions.

The Connally-Smith bill actually is far less stringent than many labor leaders feared it might be; it cannot be called reactionary. In fact, the bill as finally passed represents a compromise between the views of those who favored something more drastic and those who favored a position so mild and innocuous that it represented a policy of coddling. It would have been infinitely better if no legislative action had been called for by such dangerous procedure as the continued threat of production stoppages in the coal industry, even after it had been taken over by the government, but the fact is the legislative action was called for and finally taken.

How Painfully True!

IN THE U. S. department of labor's latest report on the cost of living, dealing statistically with what happened in the month ending March 15, there is one statement of surprising frankness.

"The statistics are based on actual selling prices, regardless of OPA ceilings," explains the report. As early as last March, in other words, there must have been official recognition in Washington (or at least there was in May, when the March statistics were released) that the cost of living was a matter of practice while ceiling prices were, in many instances, theory.

The buying public, knowing this, simply wondered what government officials were talking about when they dealt in generalities about the cost of living. The public had additional cause for perplexity and disbelief because of discrepancy between its actual experience and the government's statistical experience, another weakness in the statistical approach. The department of labor hopes to overcome this by including in its food cost index additional foods which people are buying in larger quantities, such as hamburger and liver; by giving more weight to quotations from war production centers, where prices are highest; and by shifting the importance of foods that have been made more difficult to obtain, such as bananas and beef.

To sum up, the cost of living isn't what a statistician says it is, but what a breadwinner knows it is when he meets it.

Bomber-Fighters

LOSS of 26 heavy United States bombers in one raid as the result of strong German fighter resistance may mark a more decisive turn in the war over Europe than is being acknowledged in official accounts of this new record of losses.

The Germans are concentrating on aerial resistance to American daylight bombing tactics. They have available for this purpose excellent pursuit planes; obviously, the intention is to turn back United States daylight bombers as successfully as the British turned back German daylight bombers in 1940.

Descriptions of the actions speak, however, of heavy losses of German pursuit planes. This is in accordance with the tactical theory that the bombers can defend themselves successfully in large formations, to the point where the Germans ultimately will be unable to send up enough fighter resistance to give them a battle, with results that already have been demonstrated in the Mediterranean theater.

Bomber-fighters are this country's most distinctive contribution to the new aerial warfare that has been conducted so successfully recently that it is being mentioned again as the means of winning the war more quickly than anyone dared hope for as recently as a year ago.

News Behind the News

Home Front Peril Adequately Presented by Recent Bureau Announcements.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 16—The peril on the home front was adequately presented properly by the simultaneous announcements yesterday, the government bureaus in charge.

A simple understanding of the confused administrative dangers can be obtained by just putting these official statements side-by-side.

Labor Secretary Perkins announced a survey by her women's bureau had uncovered thousands of war workers inadequately fed and one urged mass feeding in lunches at the plants. Absenteeism she traced to debility anemia and indigestion, due primarily to "inadequate supply of food at places of work."

On that same day Donald Nelson announced that goods upon which war workers and civilians live, will have to be cut another 20 per cent from existing rations by the end of the year.

War Department

At precisely that moment, also, the war department announced it was taking 15 per cent of the beef kill after June 14 for the Army.

In short the government proposes to cut more of what the government says is already inadequate, or at least inadequately distributed. By varying and conflicting conclusions, it seems to proclaim it has reached the point where it cannot make both ends meet.

To top this off (still the same day), the national canners, in convention assembled, heard that canneries were being closed because increased wages would not permit profitable operations even with subsidies.

To top this (also same day), the agriculture department announced food production this year would be far less than last year and less than estimated.

Here then is the problem in all its simple reality—not alone the problem of food, because precisely the same elements of trouble show in many lines (gasoline, synthetic rubber, even manpower and prices-wages, where both ends similarly are failing to meet).

Equitable Distribution

The military is claiming first call, the home front bureaus are beginning to worry and doubt, and lend-lease is likewise grabbing secretly from the dwindling basket. What is needed is an equitable distribution among the three—apparently another redistribution.

If lend-lease or the military takes too much, there would be a collapse or breakdown on the home front, which is equally important with the fighting front.

What do you do in a situation like that?

The obvious and only possible solution is to get an over-all authority which will stretch both points until they do meet, to make them meet by strong arbitrary action.

It would be the duty of such an authority to establish on a basis of reasonableness, the point at which the ends should meet the minimum requirements of all sides, and then crack the whip to bring them there, if it requires cutting through all the gold braid and red tape in Washington.

Such an authority could reasonably require the military and land-lease to economize, avoid waste, take only what is essential—not necessarily what they first ask, not what they would like to have under abundance or for political effect abroad. Someone must gauge minimum civilian requirements as well, and meet them also with the available supply.

Such an authority recently has been created, but has not yet acted as far as anyone outside knows from reading the conflicting government announcements.

The Byrnes-Baruch over-all control has all the legal power in the world, but no one can give it the necessary courage to make the domestic economy work. It will first have to break down the "jealous perogatives" of all the interested government bureaus, and do its re-distributions in such a fair and reasonable way as to inspire public confidence in the results it obtains.

In short, it must find where reasonableness lies and take the whole domestic war economy to that point—without much more delay.

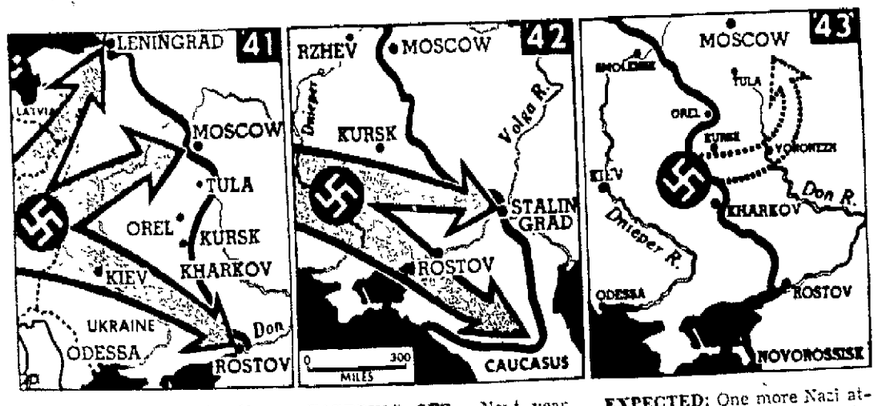
Watch Russian Front on June 22



THREE PRONGS. Triple-offensive was launched against Russia at start of war.

TAPERING OFF. Next year, only two spears were driven at the Soviets.

EXPECTED: One more Nazi attempt to cross Don, get to Moscow.

By HENRY CASSIDY
Associated Press Bureau Chief.
Moscow

NEW YORK, June 16—Watch for June 22, 1943, as another great date in the history of this war.

It will be the second anniversary of the German invasion of Russia, the beginning of the third year of the enormous campaign which many thought, at its start, would last only three weeks to three months.

But even more important it will be the date by which Hitler, to make one more venture in the east, must have started on his course.

(June 22 is also, according to broadcasts by the Berlin radio, the date upon which the Nazis expected the United Nations to launch a major continental invasion effort.)

Hitler has already lost one valuable month of the fighting weather which has limited German arms each year to offensive operations between May and November. A year ago, on May 8, he started his campaign on the Kerch peninsula of the Crimea. This year, he has let May slip past without a major move.

Caucasus Abandoned

That can be interpreted to mean the Germans will not strike in the south, that they have abandoned, for this year at least, any gamble on getting the riches of the Caucasus, the oil of Baku.

They never have made a serious effort in that direction. Their southern campaign last year was limited to a few divisions, designed as a diversion while they made their main effort to strike north through Stalingrad against the heart of Russia.

That diversion proved fatal to their own plans, because it weakened their own strength in the battle of Stalingrad to a point where the Red Army could, and did, check them and throw them back beyond their Taganrog-Kharkov-Kursk starting point.

One At A Time

They seem to be avoiding that mistake this year, the mistake, as Josef Stalin put it, of "chasing two hares at once."

The Caucasian bridgehead they clung to last winter, and are defending so stubbornly this spring around Novorossisk, now appears to have been left as a decoy for Russian forces. Instead of being used as the spearhead for a German offensive against the Caucasus, it has been kept as a bastion of German defense against Red Army attacks.

The Russians have not been deluded into diverting any great forces to this sector at the expense of the vital center. They appear to be battering down the bridgehead gradually, with artillery as the main weapon, but keeping their main forces opposite the principal German concentration on Russia's western front.

Having sacrificed a month of fighting time in the south, the Germans cannot afford to lose a minute of their potential period of operations in the center. They started their momentous march east on June 22, 1941, after a late spring. They launched their major offensive June 22, 1942, from Kharkov. They must start again by June 22, 1943, if they are to get anywhere.

Major Objective

Their major objective, throughout the war, has been destruction of the Red Army. The Germans' capacity to strike at that goal has diminished progressively, from a three-front offensive in 1941, to a two-front offensive in 1942, and probably to a single-front offensive in 1943.

Their objective has correspondingly diminished. Probably, it has now reached a point where the most the Germans could hope to do this year would be to knock the offensive power out of the Red Army before the Allies strike in the west.

Stalin does not think the Germans can do that.

"Another two or three powerful blows from the west and east are needed," he said in his last speech May 1, "for the catastrophe of Hitlerite Germany to become an accomplished fact."

By June 22, just two years after the Germans brought their ordeal in the east upon themselves, they may be on their way to bringing their final downfall upon themselves.

Reds Await Summer Push

Watch Hitler Assemble Supplies, But They're Stronger, Too.

Eddy Gilmore, who writes the following story on how Russia's people face the impending summer campaign, has just returned to America after nearly two years as an Associated Press correspondent in Moscow.

By EDDY GILMORE

NEW YORK, June 16—With a large part of the German army camped just beyond Moscow's front yard—and ready to strike if you believe in signs—you'd think the little people of the big old city would be getting slightly excited as the tension tightens.

Well, they aren't.

The Ivan Ivanoviches and the Sonia Ivanovas, of Mother Moscow are paying about as much attention to the Wehrmacht on the central front as they would be to a well charged but well controlled samovar.

A samovar needs watching. Just keep it under watchful eye and control and nothing much is going to happen to anyone or anything—except the samovar.

For weeks the citizens of Moscow and the land between Moscow and such Russian cities as Briansk, Oriel, Svesk, Kursk, Smolensk and Velikie Luki have known that a lot is going on.

They knew Hitler has turned into these sectors many trains bearing troops, tanks, guns, mortars and all the other implements of war. They are well aware that as the flooded Russian roads dried the Germans brought up—and are still bringing up—thousands of loaded trucks.

People Know

The little people, the apartment house dwellers, the keepers of little cottages, the tillers of the fields and all the others, know that such a great German concentration means a push is imminent.

The Russian newspapers have hammered this into the people for weeks now. The army paper, Red Star, has shouted it to the soldier, and the Red Fleet, publication of the Navy has had its say to the sailors.

The Red army—more than any other army in the world—has felt the weight of a German push. It has been told that this summer the weight may be greater than ever before, that more tanks may come, that more dive bombers may be usd, and that even gas may be employed.

The little people know Hitler is desperate. Twice he has driven deeply into the lands of their ancestors when the warm weather came. And twice when the cold weather arrived the Red army has pushed back the German.

This summer there is a strange deliberateness to Hitler's plans. They almost seem too apparent. He seems to be building solidly for the central or western front.

There is much speculation that he may try to break through southwest of Moscow, drive westward, then turn northward and try to get behind the capital.

Well Supplied

Only this is known—Hitler appears to have enough material and men on this front to seek to accomplish such a feat.

The German command has had four major objective setbacks:

1. Failure to take Moscow.
2. Failure to capture Stalingrad.
3. Failure to hold the Caucasus and her oil.
4. Failure to storm Leningrad or to starve it out.

Can Hitler fail again in Russia?

The Soviets, who are always realists, realize that Hitler can fail again and possibly again. They don't rest on the rhetoric of the presumption that he can't fail again.

Great victories, they know, are often made of many failures.

The open manner in which Hitler is building up the central front worries some of the thinkers. There's a possibility of a trick. He may also be building up that strong sector of the Taganrog line.

If Hitler goes for the Caucasus again he has to have Rostov, and Taganrog isn't far away. If he wants the Don back, Tagan-

Al Siegel

By DAMON RUNYON

If You Wonder Where So Many Female Singers Get the Idea Its from Famous Voice Coach.

AL SIEGEL, once skinny and rubber now corpulent and apparently hale and hearty, is a fabulous figure of show who might be described as a modern Svengali of girl singers. His fame rests on an uncanny perception of potential talent in the human larynx and amazing skill in the development of same.

He has just come up with a new singer he says will surpass all his other pupils. Her name is Delores Williams, a slender Negro girl from upstate New York, a graduate of Hampton university. I believe her father is in the restaurant business in Syracuse. Her voice is mezzo-soprano, she is of nice appearance, and those who have heard her in the few weeks she has been under Al Siegel's coaching say she has much of the style and quality of Florence Mills, one of the greatest singing personalities the Negro race ever produced.

I have known Al Siegel more than 20 years and do not remember a time in that period when he did not have a new singing find, but rarely an old one. The old ones grow up in lights on Broadway with Al now a part of their professional lives, a circumstance I thought somewhat peculiar until I asked about it one day and discovered he merely suffers the fate of all pioneers.

He catches his proteges young, works a hound developing and exploiting them, when they reach 21 and any agreements may have with them are no longer binding, some slicker lures them away to greater fortune, if not greater fame. Although uncomplaining about this I half suspect he rather favors shedding the old ones for the greater thrill of finding and developing new ones.

HIS newest find is already 21. She was recently working with a band in the George hotel in Brooklyn. Monroe Goldstein, former New York lawyer, now living in Hollywood, was planning to revive the famous old show, "Shuffle Along" in downtown Los Angeles and needed an ingenue. A friend of Al's heard Miss Williams and knew of Goldstein's requirements sent her to him. He turned her over to Siegel for schooling. He is very choosey about proteges, rarely handles more than one at a time and is always elbowing applicants away from him. But anyway he took on Miss Williams. He liked her voice.

The "Shuffle Along" project was suspended and the girl went into the Trocadero, a Hollywood night club, with Al at the piano as accompanist, to become a sensation. He has her singing sophisticated songs, ballads and rhythm of his arrangement. Singers say Al is one of the greatest accompanists who ever lived, though his forte is arranging. He endeavors to apply his arrangements to the personality of the singer.

He was born at 2nd avenue and 3rd street, old Bohemian neighborhood in New York. He was a musical child prodigy and always a rebel against stereotyped form. Some thought his arrangements fantastic and highbrow. The wonder woman of present day public entertainers, Sophie Tucker, thought otherwise. She engaged Al as her arranger and he was with her three years. He was working with Sophie at Reisenweber's in New York when he first saw the blonde sunbeam, Bee Palmer.

HE TOOK charge of her development. Bee became one of the finest song delineators of the day. I think she is the only one of Al's proteges he ever fell in love with. They were married some years. After the split out Al became a big influence in the development of Ethel Merman, though he says she would have emerged from obscurity in any event because of her voice and personality. It was when he was playing for her at the opening night of the show "Girl Crazy," in Philadelphia, that he suffered a complete breakdown from tuberculosis and was an invalid for a couple of years.

After Miss Merman came Lillian Shade and scores of other girls. Al coached or influenced Deane Janis, Benay Venuta, Thelma Leeds, Josephine Huston, Lillian Miles, Patricia Bowman, Shirley Ross, Lillian Carman, Ruth Terry, the Saxon sisters, Joan Miller, Connie Russell, Anne Brewster, Jean Collins, Francis Wayne and Susan Miller. While working for various studios in Hollywood he schooled a large number of present day female stars in singing.

Churchill's Bon Mot

Winston Churchill, prime minister of Great Britain, is becoming one of the most quotable men in the world.

In Washington, which he has embellished with many remarks, this story is reported leading in sweepstakes for popularity:

It seems that Mr. Churchill was addressing one of his generals who has no bad habits whatever—does not drink, smoke, chew, dance or snuff, but prays devoutly morning and evening as well as before battle.

"General," the prime minister is supposed to have declared, "you are invincible in attack, indomitable in retreat—and insufferable otherwise."

Of Thee We Sing

One energetic patrolman in the northeast section of the city remembered the ordinance and ordered the wife of a government printing office employe to plow under her victory garden.

The order brought the whole thing to light. The city fathers not only backed up the policeman, but instructed the entire police force to go easy on ing for victory gardens that are on the curb parking" at the District-owned space back of the streets is called.

Did You Know

The government's conservation and simplification program in the manufacture of women's and children's hosiery is expected to save 14,800,000 pounds annually of cotton, rayon and wool yarns.

British "Pig Clubs" of amateur pig-raisers counted for 7,000 tons of bacon in 1942 and provided enough pig meat for 100 million breakfasts.

Reducing sizes and stock items of grocery bags will save about 80,000 tons of wood pulp and use of 4,000 freight cars.

According to a Stockhold report, Russian Poles engaged in forced labor in Germany are forbidden to go to church.

Huron Indians, remnants of the tribe driven eastward by the Iroquois, have established Ancienne Lorette, near Quebec City, Quebec.

A patriotic citizen of Marshall, Texas, paid $3.50 to get one of his tires vulcanized and turned it in to the government as an exhibit.

Artists are feeling the pinch of war economy savings through an order halting production of metal easels and metal picture frames.

THE AMERICAN POWER LINE

Victories are coming our way! The mighty force that is America is making itself felt on the world's battle-fronts. The miracle of our industrial power is beginning to count.

Let's tell the story of the things that make America tick, of our amazing ability to get things done. Let's feel proud of what our Electric Power is contributing to victory on the battlefronts of the world. We have more of it here in America than all the rest of the axis world combined, and we are using it.

Without it? Well, you guess the answer.

There are hundreds of thousands of men and women behind the electric power industry who, by their fine performance during the peace-time expansion of the electrical industry in America, helped dig the grave of the Master Planners of World Conquest. We outproduce them all.

Yes, we have built up in this country more kilowatt hour output than all the axis dominated countries combined. But just to make the power was not enough. It had to be delivered to the war-geared factories running full tilt round-the-clock; to the homes, stores, offices. It had to be ready and waiting, on time and in abundance wherever and whenever needed.

And it has been! No factory wheel in America, regardless of where located, has failed to run for lack of electric power. Power in adequate amounts was ready when our peace-time factories swung over to the furious pace of war. As every new plant mushroomed up, electric power was on the job well in advance of need. And in the homes of all of us it is one necessity that has not been rationed.

All this, because American energy in peace-time planned with amazing vision and foresight for any emergency.

And let us record in passing that, in these days of rapidly spiraling prices of many necessities, the price paid for electric power has actually been a declining one. Consumers, both war plants (therefore Uncle Sam) and the workers' homes are benefiting thereby.

Yes, our Power Makers planned well. And their stewardship over the electric power supply of a nation of people who have come to take this miracle as commonplace, has become more firmly secured by performance in an hour of emergency. This is the fabric from which Victory will be woven; it is the fabric that spells America!

Miss Hope Ruth, Ensign Eastman Exchange Vows

MRS. JOHN R. EASTMAN

Miss Hope Ruth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ruth of near Green Camp, became the bride of Ensign John Richard Eastman, son of Mrs. Marie Eastman of Delaware, in a ceremony read Saturday at the Green Camp Methodist church. Closed church was observed for a single ring service read at 2:30 by Rev. C. F. Fogle of the Wesley Methodist church of Lima.

For her wedding the bride was costumed in a white organdy dress trimmed in eyelet embroidery. Her finger tip veil was held in place with gardenias and she carried a gardenia and orchid bouquet. Her maid of honor, Mrs. Sidney Griffith of Columbus, sister of the groom, wore a yellow marquisette dress and carried a colonial bouquet of blue delphinium.

Billie and Evelyn Ruth, sisters of the bride, served as bride's maids and were attired in identical gowns of blue taffeta and marquisette. They carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations and blue delphinium. Flower girls were Rosemary Mautz and Joan Rengert who wore blue organdy dresses and carried small colonial bouquets of the same flowers as the bride's maids.

Sidney Griffith, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man. Paul Augenstein was ring bearer and ushers were William Harrington and Herbert Eastman, a brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ruth chose an aqua ensemble and Mrs. Eastman was attired in a mauve ensemble. Both wore orchid shoulder corsages.

Violin music preceding the ceremony was furnished by Homer Huffman accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Ackerman Jr. Mr. Huffman played "Meditation," "O Promise Me," "Intermezzo" and "At Dawning." Evelyn Ruth sang "All For You," "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride. Assisting at the reception were Miss Gladys Uncapher, Mrs. Paul Roberts, Misses Doris and Ruth Oesterle.

Following the reception, Ensign and Mrs. Eastman returned by train to Cambridge, Mass., where the bridegroom is attending naval training school at Harvard university.

Mrs. Eastman is a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan university where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. The groom attended Ohio Wesleyan university and graduated from Ohio State university. Prior to his induction in the navy, he was associated with the Effler and Eastman law firm of Toledo.

OPA TO CHECK ON VACATION DRIVERS

Resorts, Fishing Grounds To Be Surveyed by Officers.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 16—Resorts and other vacation grounds in Ohio and neighboring states will be placed under surveillance for the next few months to check motorists illegally using gasoline for pleasure trips, the regional office of price administration announced today.

James C. Gruener, regional OPA attorney, said the region's 14 district OPA directors agreed on this plan to assure continuation of the more important transportation of workers to and from war plants "in this critical stage of the nation's rubber program."

"We are giving vacationists fair warning at this time so they may know what to expect should they plan distant vacations," the attorney said, adding that popular fishing points in the region would be included among the places checked.

Gruener declared the OPA would seek first of all to correct abuse of B and C rations granted on an occupational basis. Present ration regulations allow only 90 miles of "free mileage" or non-essential driving per month under the basic A book, although the motorists also may hold A B or C book.

"Our aim is not to deprive the motorist of a needed vacation," Gruener asserted, "but we must keep in mind that any extra use of rubber at this time could not be justified in the light of our present rubber supplies."

Fuel rationing for motor boats likewise prevents their use for frequent, extensive trips this summer. While boat operations involve no rubber waste, they consume "the same kind of fuel used in automobiles" and gasoline now must be conserved for essential needs in the region, explained Charles H. Schreiber, regional OPA rationing executive.

Inboard motor boats are limited to a supply of 125 gallons for 90 days, while outboards are alloted only 20 gallons for the same period.

MARION SHOE STORES RETURN TO NORMAL

Sales as Usual After Final Coupon 17 Rush.

Normal shoe sales were reported today by most of the Marion shoe dealers after the rush of the last few days.

Sport and summer shoes were the choice of most of the buyers who crowded the stores in an attempt to use their No. 17 stamp before the deadline yesterday. Stock was reported to be comparatively low after the rush but all dealers stated that normal demands could easily be filled.

One manager stated that he would have a completely replenished stock within a week. Another dealer reported that it would be the middle of July or the first of August before he could report complete replacements.

Most of the stores were forced to close for a lunch period yesterday and some dealers admitted the crowd in groups, others kept the doors open all day except for a luncheon hour.

OHIO GETS SHARE VICTORY FOOD FUND

To Be Used To Help Channel Farm Labor.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—Its share, registered by $190,000 in dollars, the Ohio agricultural extension service is pursuing a major wartime job—to help farms meet 1943 victory goals.

The fund represents Ohio's initial share of a $26,100,000 federal appropriation to finance broadened farm labor programs of agricultural services.

The secretary of agriculture authorized state extension services, state and county agricultural boards as agencies responsible for the recruitment, placement, transfer and utilization of agricultural workers.

Work with Draft Boards

Under the same directive, county boards were named interlocutors between local selective service boards and registrants deferred as essential farm workers. "The whole program is keyed to one goal—peak farm production," Ralph Ramsower, director of the state extension service and state administrator of the new farm labor fund. "This money is earmarked for setting up administrative machinery so the service may help its county agents can fill emergency farm labor demands."

Ramsower named Guy Dowdy state supervisor of emergency farm labor.

Assistants Chosen

In most counties an emergency farm labor assistant will help the county agent, Ramsower said, reporting that the program is operating in about 80 of Ohio's 88 counties.

By obtaining replacements where possible the county agent and the county war board of which he is an ex-officio member expedite the flow of deferred farm registrants to the armed services.

Under draft regulations the farm worker-registrant is granted deferment unless dependency factors enter only while he is necessary. If farm labor authorities are able to replace him satisfactorily his local draft boards shall terminate the deferment.

Death Claims Dr. Jesse Swank

agent and it was while he was engaged in this work he received the call which led him into his life work.

In the various towns he visited Dr. Swank, as a Bible seller, called on the ministers for letters of introduction. In Bellefontaine he called on Rev. J. L. Albritton and after receiving the letter, accepted an invitation from the pastor to visit his church, which had been built recently. As he stood there in the church by the side of the minister who had befriended him, it seemed he could hear a voice deep down within him saying, "You have found your work. This is your home." He heeded the voice and immediately began to prepare for his life work. He studied until time for the examination for conference and was then ordained.

Circuit Experience

Shortly after his ordination he received his first charge which was Gettysburg, Darke county. He had five churches which he visited in turn and every other week, with horse and buggy, he made his circuit, a trip of 46 miles. He served at this charge for a year, after which he was made pastor of the Methodist church at Zanesfield, Logan county. Two years in Zanesfield were followed by three years in West Liberty, after which he went to Napoleon, where he remained seven years. He served as pastor of the church in Bellefontaine for five years, later going to Van Wert, where he spent seven years before coming to Marion.

Half Century of Service

When Dr. Swank retired in 1940 he had served 50 years in the ministry, 10 of which were spent as pastor of Epworth church in Marion. He accepted the pastorate here in the fall of 1913 and on Nov. 1, 1923 he was called by the late Bishop Theodore Henderson to serve as superintendent of the Dayton district of the Methodist conference, a position he filled until 1928 when he was made pastor of the Central Methodist church at Springfield. He served as chairman of the Cincinnati area of the Ohio Methodist conference after the death of Bishop Henderson. He retired in 1940 but returned to the active ministry a few months ago when the pastor at Westerville entered the armed services as chaplain. Dr. Swank was regarded by ministers and laymen as one of the ablest preachers in the Ohio conference. In addition to his pastoral work he attended numerous state and national church conferences as a delegate, was a trustee of the Dayton district and a member of numerous church boards and committees. At the time of his death he was president emeritus of the Methodist Children's Home at Worthington. Upon his retirement Dr. and Mrs. Swank established their residence at Lakeside and spent their winters in Florida.

Dr. Swank was a member of Bellefontaine Lodge No. 209, F. & A. M., Lafayette chapter No. 60, R. A. M., Logan Council No. 85, R. & S. M., and Bellefontaine Commandery No. 61, Knights Templar, all of Bellefontaine, and was a life member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Valley of Toledo.

He was active in civic as well as religious affairs of Marion and the community serving as a trustee of the Chautauqua, a member and director of the Marion Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Kiwanis club. During the World war he was an active and untiring worker in all the local campaigns.

WPB ISSUES REGULATIONS FOR MORE FARM MACHINES

Steel Allotment Provides for Twice Normal Year's Production.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—The war production board yesterday issued regulations covering the expanded production of farm machinery announced last week by Chairman Donald M. Nelson, when he alloted 900,000 tons of carbon steel to the farm machinery industry for the 12 months beginning July 1.

WPB said the allotment would permit a boost in farm equipment production to nearly double that of a normal year, although only around 80 per cent of the production in the banner year of 1940.

The new order fixes production quotas for manufacturers "based on the actual needs of the farmers of this country" as determined by the war food administration, and it has been approved by A. D. Whiteside, director of the office of civilian requirements, WPB said.

The new order cuts short the life of its predecessor by three months, but producers are permitted to complete their old unfinished quotas in addition to the quotas newly set up. The 900,000-ton allotment is made up of 300,000 tons for the quarter starting July 1 and advance authorizations of 200,000 tons each for the next three quarters.

At the same time WPB announced that 20,000 tons of barbed wire with extra long barbs, made for military use, will be used to meet a shortage of such wire on farms. The scarcity was aggravated by the recent midwestern flood which washed out many miles of fence.

CREW OF LOST SUB PRAISED BY NAVY

Nine Ohioans on Argonaut When It Went Down.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Nine Ohioans were among the 102 officers and crewmen of the U. S. Submarine Argonaut receiving tribute from the Navy department for accepting "destruction rather than surrender."

The Navy announced yesterday that all men aboard the Argonaut have been awarded identical letters of commendation by Rear Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, commander of submarine forces, Pacific fleet, for a successful attack against an enemy destroyer during a patrol near Rabaul, New Britain.

The Argonaut, the largest under sea craft of its type in the U. S. Navy, was reported overdue and presumed to be lost on Feb. 21. Added details regarding its destruction were furnished in the letters awarded the ill-fated crewmen. It said:

"On a war patrol conducted by the USS Argonaut in heavily patrolled enemy waters, that vessel is known to have closed and delivered a successful attack against an enemy desroyer. As a result of a severe counter-attack the Argonaut was forced to break surface but the officers and crew accepted destruction rather than surrender."

Ohions in the crew, included:

Charles Hugh Baker, Alliance; John Ben Bodak, Fairport harbor; Warren Walter Davis, Empire; Frederick Henderson Lewis, Steubenville; Roland Franklin Nichols, Newton Falls; Hugo Joseph Serafini, Alliance.

Bonnet Looms As Principal Hope for United France

While Dewitt Mackenzie is on vacation, this daily column is being written by Max Hill, foreign editor of The Associated Press bureau in Paris.

By MAX HILL

At least one member of the newly formed French committee of national liberation has had the common sense to strip the organization of its political implications and get down to what he thinks is the basic purpose—a united France.

It is unfortunate that the chief protagonists, Generals De Gaulle and Giraud, cannot be as objective and end their cautious sparring for position, since so much is at stake for all of us.

"The question as to whether one is a Giraudist or a De Gaullist is not important," Henri Bonnet, who is minister of information in the committee, said in a recent interview. "We have been appointed as a unit for France, and we will serve as such."

M. Bonnet is now enroute to Algiers, but it remains to be seen what effect his reasonable attitude will have on the two men whose cooperation is so necessary for a successful committee.

Luncheon Cancelled

Yesterday reliable French sources in Algiers said a scheduled luncheon meeting between De Gaulle and Giraud had been cancelled, but today it was disclosed they met in private, evidently preferring to discuss their differences of opinion without too large an audience.

The Associated Press correspondent in Algiers said he believed the meeting resulted in added strength for De Gaulle, with some unspecified concessions on Giraud's part.

The current impasse, which stems back to the pre-war period and France's anticipated and complex political structure for its beginning, is made more complicated by the comparative financial positions of De Gaulle and Giraud.

On the one hand, De Gaulle gets virtually all of his funds from the British.

On the other hand, Giraud not only has money, but he also has supplies, such as oil and peanuts and wine and plenty of mutton, to trade with the United Nations for the necessary weapons of war. Besides, he has sent a substantial sum of money in gold to the United States.

Up to Eisenhower

Regardless of what turn the joint committee squabble takes, it will be the American general, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has the final say—if he so wishes. Africa will remain the province of the commanding general of the United Nations armies for a long time to come, and the French can't move without consulting him first.

That means the British also have the right to approve—or disapprove—of any suggestions made, since it is a joint command.

However, until now the Eisenhower policy, and there is no indication of a change, has been to take a strictly hands off attitude on any question involving the French which does not touch on military security. There isn't much chance, therefore, that the situation will get out of control with such an arbitrary check-rein ready at a moment's notice.

HOUSING

if an essential war worker is for some reason forced out of his present home, he may be eligible for one of the apartments. Incidentally, the policy is to favor families with children rather than discriminate against them.

A dozen other structures in Marion are being considered for conversion to multiple living units, including the old Marion club building on South Prospect street which is visualized as possibly 12-family project. However, these are in the course of processing and may be approved or rejected by federal officials.

J. B. Carlisle, assistant property manager for the HOLC in a region including Ohio and West Virginia, was in Marion yesterday to inspect the new units and confer with Mr. Dwyer. The latter has just taken over the duties of qualifying the prospective renters for the new units, to some extent replacing Grover Snyder who resigned as manager of Marion's war housing center last month.

PREVALENCE OF VENEREAL DISEASE SHOWN IN TESTS

Congress Learns Syphilis Rate in U. S. Is 47 Per Thousand.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Congress learned yesterday that in the examination of men, aged 21 through 35, for the armed services 47.7 of each 1,000 were found to have syphilis, and that the prevalence among Negroes in one southern state ran to 405.9 in each 1,000.

The figures, based on a study of the first 2,000,000 selectees examined in 44 states, were given to the house appropriations committee by the public health service.

Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general, said rejections ran to 44,000 in each 1,000,000 men on account of syphilis and 16,000 of each 1,000,000 due to gonorrhea infection. If this ratio held through the examination of 10,000,000 men, there would be over 610,000 rejections due to venereal diseases.

Dr. R. A. Vonderlehr, of the health service, gave the committee the figures on the rate of syphilis per 1,000 among 21 to 35 years old, by states, as follows (white):

DAVIS IS TARGET OF FRESH CRITICISMS

Senator Bridges Accuses Him of Trying To Silence Press.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Two members of congress criticized Elmer Davis, chief of the office of war information (OWI), yesterday, one accusing him of seeking to be a "propaganda minister," the other saying he ought to be investigated.

The criticism, not the first aimed at Davis since he relinquished a radio broadcasting job to take the OWI helm, arose over a speech in Boston in which Davis said Washington news coverage was inadequate.

Senator Bridges, Republican of New Hampshire, told the senate yesterday that Davis was trying to silence the press to cover the sins of mal-administration on the part of the New Deal in the war effort." He said the newspaper reporters in Washington were to be "commended, not criticized, for their outstanding effort . . . their masterful accomplishment of a difficult task."

Bridges said Davis was objecting, perhaps, because "they have uncovered some news about Washington which does not leak too well outside of Washington."

Davis, addressing the American Newspaper Guild, declared that capital newsmen were overlooking the big story of the war—production—while paying attention to interdepartment bickerings. To this Bridges retorted:

"No where can be found a more loyal group of American citizens than the men and women who today report the news of this nation for the great wire services and the many newspapers."

Bridges said OWI "prevented industry from telling the full story of production, just as it has prevented the truth from being told in Washington when the people had the right to know the truth." He said "OWI, its policies and its personnel should be thoroughly investigated."

Rep. Short, Republican of Missouri, told the house meanwhile that it seemed to him "Davis now conceives his real title to be that of American propaganda minister."

In defense of Davis, Majority Leader McCormack, Democrat of Massachusetts, said propaganda had become a necessary part of war.

Says S. Carolina Democrats Refuse To Aid Campaign

By The Associated Press

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., June 16—The Spartanburg Herald said today the South Carolina Democratic executive committee had unanimously refused a request of the National Executive committee for financial support in the 1944 national Democratic campaign.

Disagreement of the state committee with the national policies of the party was the basis for refusal to contribute to the 1944 party war chest, the Herald said:

The newspaper, saying it was quoting state committeemen but not naming them, said the chief reason for the reported dissension was the resentment of the South Carolina group at what it called apparent efforts of the national committee "to woo the Negro vote at the expense of southern feelings."

The committeemen, the Herald said, at a meeting in Columbia two weeks ago, instructed State Chairman Winchester Smith of Barnwell county to write the national committee of their refusal to comply with the request for a contribution to national party funds. The letter was mailed either yesterday or today, the Herald says.

NO MORE TAXES ON INCOMES FOR 1943

That's Pledge of Leaders In Congress After Conference.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 16—Congressional leaders agreed at a conference with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau yesterday to consider a new tax bill this year, but they emphasized there would be no additional burden placed upon 1943 incomes.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the tax-framing house ways and means committee said new legislation probably would be written this fall but that major provisions would not become effective before next Jan. 1.

President Roosevelt has asked for $16,000,000,000 in new taxes and savings of both, but Doughton, in reply to questions, said no decision had been reached as to the amount or manner of taxation.

"There is a definite sentiment against retroactive tax laws," he declared, adding:

"I think we made a mistake in making the 1942 income tax rates retroactive. Retroactive taxes cause hardships in some cases, especially in these times of high wartime rates."

The 1942 tax legislation did not become law until last Oct. 27, yet the rates on incomes—highest in history—were applicable back to Jan. 1, 1942. However, the 1942 burden was altered considerably for most taxpayers by recent passage of pay-as-you-go legislation.

Doughton said the ways and means committee probably would begin consideration of a new tax bill about Aug. 20.

CHAPLIN, MISS O'NEILL DUE TO WED TODAY

Newspaper Says Justice Will Unite Comedian and Girl.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, June 16—The Los Angeles Times states that it has learned from an unimpeachable source that Charles Chaplin and Oona O'Neill, 18-year-old daughter of Playwright Eugene O'Neill, will be married today by a justice of the peace at an undisclosed place.

Neither the 54-year-old comedian-producer nor Miss O'Neill could be reached to confirm the report, which was circulated widely in Hollywood last night, the Times said.

The newspaper's account stated that Chaplin and Miss O'Neill, named New York's No. 1 debutante last year, have known each other about eight months, and added that from informed persons it was learned they "might have been wed here had it not been for the Joan Berry suit," which charged that Chaplin is the father of Miss Berry's expected child.

Miss O'Neill recently was signed for a movie role, and Chaplin is said to have been coaching her.

By a court stipulation made June 10, Miss Berry, 23-year-old aspirant to a screen career, and Chaplin agreed to permit medical science to determine the paternity of the child by blood or other tests which will be conducted not less than four months after its birth, their attorneys announced.

The stipulation also provides that Chaplin will pay approximately $18,500 for Miss Berry's hospital and medical expenses, attorneys' fees and various other costs, pending the tests. It is agreed, counsel said, that the suit will be dismissed if tests show Chaplin is not the father.

Chaplin has been married three times previously—to Mildred Harris, Lita Grey and Paulette Goddard—but in each case divorce ended the romance.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 16—Charles Chaplin, motion picture comedian-producer, and Oona O'Neill, daughter of Playwright Eugene O'Neill, obtained a marriage license here today.

Gabe Cartnal Scores Four Heat Wins, Three With The Walnut Abbe

Hanover Driver Scores 10th Heat Victory Here.

Repeating their first week performance but in more complete style the veteran Gabe Cartnal of Hanover and the six-year-old pacing star, The Walnut Abbe, won in straight heats the 2:13 pace, supplementary attraction on last night's Little Grand Circuit harness racing card at the county fairground track.

Cartnal, leading driver at the local meeting with 10 heat vitories to his credit, swept all three heats of the 2:13 pacing event and added a fourth heat victory last night by scoring first with The King, owned by Mrs. G. L. LaBolteaux of Perrysburg, in the initial mile of the 2:25 pace.

Last Friday night Cartnal scored two heat victories with The Walnut Abbe, owned by C. H. Bowen of Columbus, in a 15 class pace against a field of seven others including Mr. Voici, Torrid Zone, Wilkin and Frisky Frisco. In last night's event the Columbus-owned roan gelding encountered only Frisky Frisco from the previous race. His chief opposition was furnished by Cinzano a winner here earlier in the meeting.

Eddie Havens of Pinehurst, N. C., making his first start here, grabbed both heats of the two-year-old pace with Hi Fellow, owned by William Baybury of Dexter, Me. Havens arrived here Sunday with three head.

The 2:25 pace, an event arranged for slow class pacers, was won by Ethel H. owned by Albert Kelly of Cincinnati and driven by Louis Huber of the same city. The bay filly won the final two heats after losing to Mrs. G. L. LaBolteaux's The King in the intitial mile.

Last night's eight-dash program was witnessed by 2,000 fans who braved scattered showers throughout the program. Betting was on a par with the opening night take, Mutuel Manager George Heverman reported.

The daily double paid $11.60 for $2 and the quinella was worth $20. to each holder of tickets on Ethel H and Frisky Frisco in the eighth race.

LaBell vs. The Phantom
Two Referees

Rene LaBell will get his wish next Thursday at the Marion Armory when he will wrestle the Purple Phantom. These two met last Thursday and the Phantom pulled a fast one on LaBell and the Referee, winning the match, and LaBell asked for another chance. One thing the Phantom didn't know when he signed for the return match was that there will be two referees, one outside the ring and one inside so that he won't be able to do what he did last Thursday.

The one-hour semi-final, two out of three falls will see the return of popular Larry "Babe" Kosaboski trading holds with Wild Bill Zimovich. The one fall opener is Johnny Vansky versus Soldier Thomas. First match is 8:30. Advance layaways by calling Markert and Lewis Cigar Store in Marion.—Adv.

Third Straight Victory Won by Huber Co. Team

Score 15 to 1 Win Over Commercial Steel in Industrial League Game; Universal Cooler Is Winner.

Huber's Industrial league squad copped its third successive Industrial loop softball contest last night by trouncing Commercial Steel, 15 to 1 at McKinley park and Universal Cooler won its second game in as many weeks at Lincoln park by whipping the Waldo Dodgers 15 to 2. After last night's games, Huber is at the top of the league with Universal one game behind in second place.

In addition to the game being a walk away in the scoring column, Bill Everly and Harold Millisor, pitchers for the Universal and Huber respectively turned in creditable hurling performances. Everly struck out six Waldo men and walked only one while Millisor fanned 13 Commercial batters and allowed two free passes.

Biggest Universal inning was the third when five runs were marked up on a total of eight solid hits. Highlighting this inning was a long triple by first baseman Fetter of the Cooler.

The games ran reasonably similar as far as the play of the winning teams went. Both Universal Cooler and Huber made 15 runs for the seven inning stanza. Huber likewise made five counters in their half of the third.

Commercial was able to make a lone tally in the last of the first but no more. Waldo's two runs in the first portion of the second with the Commercial loop Dodgers being held scoreless from then on.

NEW YORK, June 14—Why not some umpires in baseball's Hall of Fame, too?...Probably no other group has contributed more to the game than the umps...and certainly the place isn't complete without at least a picture of Bill Klem drawing the line...And a lot of umps have had their share of fame...."King" Gaffney, for instance...You may never have heard of him, for he worked in the days when a single umpire had to call 'em all and keep two packs of unruly ball players under control, but fans in those days used to turn out just to watch the king...And how about Tom Lynch, who became National League president, Jack Sheridan, Joe Cantillon, Tommy Connolly, Tim Hurst, Hank O'Day, Silk O'Loughlin, Cy Nigler or Billy Evans?

First For Hurst—The old timers tell this one about the time Tim Hurst encountered a pugnacious young pitcher named Bert Briggs...Briggs fired the first pitch through the heart of the plate, then remained poised with his hand outstretched in the "follow-through" and demanded: "How was that?"...Tim slowly removed his mask and walked halfway to the pitchers' mound and, in a conversational tone, he replied: "Young fella, if you hadn't asked it would have been a strike, but under the circumstances it's a ball."

Today's Guest Star—Nixson Denton, Cincinnati Times-Star: "If you see a lone person on the average university campus, he's probably the head football coach surrounded by his 1943 squad."

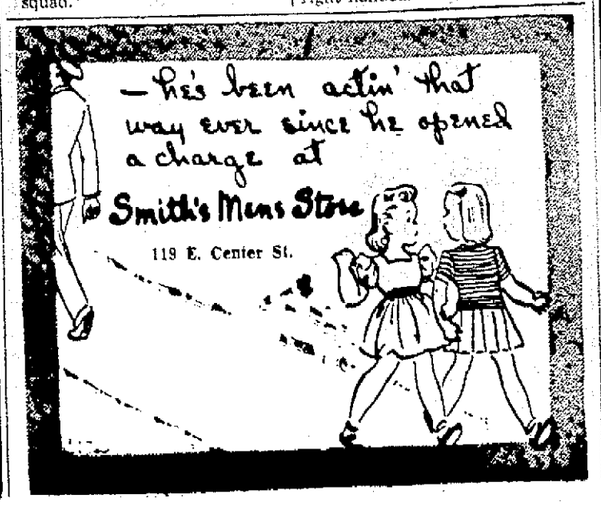
Phils Swap Podgajny to Pittsburgh for Dietz

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 16—Bespectacled Johnny Podgajny, who likes nothing better than pitching against the Chicago Cubs, leaves the Phillies today for the Pittsburgh Pirates—who meet Chicago tonight.

The even-up exchange of the 22-year-old righthander from Chester, Pa., for 29-year-old Lloyd Arthur Dietz, who has won none and lost three for Pittsburgh this season, was announced a few hours before the trading deadline last midnight. Dietz also pitches right handed.



ABOLISHING SPRING FOOTBALL DEFENDED BY CANTON COACH

Robinson Denies Measure Was "Railroaded" at State Coaches Meeting.

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., June 16—Coach Jim Robinson of Canton Lehman high today came to the defense of his resolution calling for abolition of spring football practice, a measure which was adopted at a recent meeting of the Ohio High School Coaches' association in Columbus and later attacked by Coach Chuck McClain of Bridgeport.

McClain charged that the resolution was "railroaded" and that 200 coaches did not vote on it. The proposition was approved 75 to 26 but McClain claimed dissenting mentors did not care to object because "Lieut. Gov. Paul Herbert and President Bevis of Ohio State university were at the session and it didn't seem fitting to 'raise a rumpus' in front of them, especially since they were guests."

Coach Robinson, former president of the association, today declared the resolution was not "railroaded."

"It's true we didn't have much time to discuss it," he said, "as the dinner and speaking program required most of the time we were allotted before going to the annual spring football game staged by Ohio State.

"However, it doesn't take any longer to vote no than it does to say yes. Those coaches who didn't vote evidently didn't care one way or the other. Mr. Herbert and Mr. Bevis left the meeting room before we started our business session. Regardless, I see nothing wrong with an open discussion on a resolution, no matter who is present. After all, we have but one business meeting a year and it is only proper that we should lay our cards on the table."

Answering Coach McClain's charge that: "It looks to me as if some of the coaches just don't want to work in the spring and don't want to play against fellows who do; so they are trying to get spring practice banned everywhere," Robinson retorted.

"Now I ask you, who works harder. The coaches who have nothing but spring football or those who have track, tennis, baseball or golf, in addition to football on their spring schedule?"

Brewster, "Given Away" By Rickey, Boost for Phillies

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is a little baseball laugh that wanders around the major and minor leagues like the chocolate streak in a marble cake and winds up with a very red face for Branch Rickey, the old smoothie of the ivory markets, as well as a shot in the arm for the Phillies.

It's about the Phils' new shortstop, Charley Brewster, who speeds up the infield like high octane gas. And it fits into the diamond picture today because the good burghers of Philadelphia are still dancing in the streets over yesterday's astonishing antics, which saw the Phillies and the Athletics each win both ends of a doubleheader on the same afternoon.

Some figger filbert came up with the discovery that it's only eight years since this happened before. But one fan insists he can't recall the occasion.

Sparks the Phillies

Baseball men tell you Brewster is the guy who is making the Phillies run like a 16-cylinder job again, just when it began to look as if they were the same old jalopy. Anyway, they've won five of six starts since he parked his size 12's in the infield. And what makes it particularly funny is that less than seven months ago, the Brooklyn Dodgers owned Georgia Charley.

Rickey practically gave him away—and now the Bums need a shortfielder. It was so bad yesterday, in fact, that Ernie Lombardi, baseball's original gluefoot, even beat out a hit to short, as the New York Giants jolted the fading Flatbushers, 6-5. This setback sank the Brooklyns three full games out of first place in the National League, since the St. Louis Cardinals belted the Cincinnati Reds 3-1 on Harry Gumbert's two-hit hurling.

The Phils got Brewster, along with Coaker Triplett, in the three-way deal that was supposed to make a "chump" out of owner Bill Cox. Up to then Charley had been moving around so fast his laundry didn't have a chance to catch up with him.

The Phils won a 6-4 decision over Boston in their opener yesterday. Ronny Northey hit for the jackpot once in each game and the Phils took the nightcap 2-1 which boosted them into fifth place in the league.

A's Trim Red Sox

Meantime, making it Philadelphia's biggest day since Billy Penn got together with the Indians, the A's socked the Red Sox 7-4 and 4-2, with Dick Siebert sending in four runs in the opener and Jesse Flores flipping his eighth win of the year in the afterpiece.

The Yankees went four full games out in front in the American league by whipping Washington 9-5 with a seven-run spree in the eighth frame of a night game. In the other after-dark outing—Detroit and Cleveland were rained out—the St. Louis Browns belted the Chicago White Sox 5-2 as the American League batting leader, Vern Stephens, collected a homer and a single. Incidentally, the National League hitting race was taken over by Harry Walker of the Cards, who connected safely in his 22nd straight game.

Truett Sewell served up a steady nine-hitter to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

OPA Warns Against Sending in Books 1 and 2

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 16—The office of price administration disclosed yesterday that many Ohioans were sending their No. 1 and 2 ration books to the war ration book mailing center here, and cautioned the practice must stop at once.

The No. 1 and 2 books still are valid, said H. T. Beckmann, district OPA manager, and people may go hungry for rationed food if they persist in sending them in. So far, the books have been returned but this will stop if the volume continues, Beckmann warned.

The No. 3 ration book, for which Ohioans applied by mail and which are being distributed now, does not become valid for some time, Beckmann pointed out.

CHALLENGE

taken from the newspapers, he said, but assuming they were correct it would mean only 1½ to 2 per cent of the cost of prosecuting the war.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had no intention of splitting up the OPA or of establishing a food "czar." Congressional advocates of a central food authority indicated, after receiving no encouragement at the White House, that they might resort to legislative action.

Mr. Roosevelt said it was obvious how perfectly impossible it would be to set up a czar who could insist on moving food shipments ahead of weapons needed at the fighting fronts.

Subsidy Costs Hit

While Taft and most other senators declined to comment on the President's press conference remarks, one lawmaker observed, without permitting use of his name, that "it looks to me like the President is getting ready to blame us if the subsidy-rollback method fails."

Senator Bushfield (R-SD) said the President's approval of the subsidy payment plan "demonstrates that the White House's only solution to an economic problem is a raid on the United States treasury."

The cost of the subsidies, he said, would have to be paid by the taxpayers plus interest charges and administration costs. With the government administering the system, he added, "the cost will be from two to three times the total amount of the subsidies."

CLASS ENTERTAINS

Miss Lela Brookshire of 194 Olney avenue was hostess to the Women's Bible class of Wesley Methodist church last night at her home. Mrs. Bess Monk presided, and the meeting was opened with group singing of "Sweet Hour of Prayer." Mrs. Belle Kellogg conducted devotions, and Mrs. Fred Upton pronounced a prayer. The following nominating committee was named by Mrs. Monk: Mrs. R. G. Smallwood, Mrs. Ocie Latimore and Mrs. Nora Mayberry. A playlet entitled "Taking the Census" was presented by Mrs. Smallwood and Mrs. Clyde Parish. Readings were "Don't Quit" by Mrs. Effie McCrery, 'Count Your Blessings" by Mrs. A. W. Leonhardt, and "The Flame of Sacrifice" by Miss Martha Simmons. Mrs. Kellogg was winner of a contest conducted by Mrs. D. N. Kelly. Miss Simmons was a guest of the class and so were husbands of the members. The evening was concluded with the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Bertha McGinnis and Mrs. Addie McGinnis served lunch, assisted by Miss Brookshire and Miss Winnifred Shott.

NO SACRIFICE is too great for the 200 members of the Kenilworth Girls Service organization in Chicago where the boys of the armed forces are concerned—even the sacrifice of rationed shoes! The girls estimate that they have danced 2,000 miles toward victory in entertaining servicemen and Verna Parkhurst is showing the sad result.

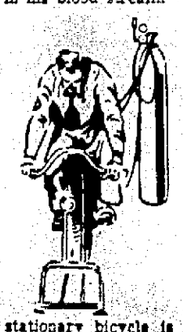
WAR BONDS

Prevents the "Bends"

Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "suped-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.



The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

Second Week Of Meetings Starts

The second week of the revival meeting at the Salvation Army citadel on West Center street opened Tuesday night with Rev. Marvin Lewis, Marion evangelist, conducting.

Basing his sermon on the words of Saint Paul in the first chapter of the first book of Corinthians, verse 18, "For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness, but to us which are saved it is the power of God," Rev. Lewis spoke of "the absolute necessity for everyone fixing their faith in this great central fact of the cross if they hope to be saved.

A service will be held tonight at 7:45 and each night this week, the meeting culminating with the Sunday night service.

The Vacation Bible school at the citadel has an average daily attendance of 60, Major Joseph Heard, in charge of the local Salvation Army work, reported. Classes will close with Friday's session and pupils will receive diplomas in a service Friday night which will open at 7:30.

CORN "BLITZ" SHUTS OFF ELEVATOR SUPPLY

Report Truckers Hunt Grain, Ignoring Price Ceiling.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 15 — Truck drivers, roaming the mid-west in an unprecedented hunt for corn, are buying the yellow grain at higher than ceiling prices and selling it profitably to farmers who need it to feed livestock, members of leading grain firms said today.

That is one reason why not as much corn as is needed is coming into marketing terminals, threatening a complete shut-down in the corn refining industry within the next 30 days.

The existence of an illegal market in corn, grain men said, is common knowledge among the trade. The Baldwin Elevator Co. of Decatur, Ill., commenting on the situation, said:

"There probably never was such a storm of truckers roaming over the Illinois highways staging a veritable corn 'blitz' on country elevators as in recent weeks. Now they are contacting the growers direct. With truckers being the privileged characters as to prices they can pay for corn, it does not look as though there will be a normal corn movement through regular channels even after producers have caught up with their work."

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN PASTOR ON CLUB PROGRAM

Talk on "Life" Given at Rotary Meeting.

Taking the Parable of the Talents as his basic theme, Rev. E. M. Hertzler, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, gave a talk on "Life" to the Marion Rotary club and guests in the club's weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding yesterday.

"Life becomes for us very much the attitude we take toward it," he told his audience. He gave an account of the lives of several men to illustrate how worthwhile achievements often distinguish the careers of those who have limited natural ability but who through application and sincere effort make the most of that ability, and how failure sometimes befalls men of talent because of wasted opportunitiesm.

"What we make of life depends upon the services we give to our fellow man in proportion to our abilities," Rev. Hertzler said in summarizing his talk.

Guests of Rotary were Major L. H. Larsen of Marion, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., Lt. Roger Morgan of Marion, on duty with the Army air corps, Pvt. Leonard B. Allen of Marion, stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky., and L. T. MacGilleray of Toledo.

GRAIN PRICES WEAK IN CLOSING MINUTES

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 16—Grains turned weak in the closing minutes today, cancelling advances which had extended from small fractions in oats to more than a cent in rye. Profit-taking entered the pits in large volume and found the market lacking bids.

Earlier, rye had advanced to new seasonal peaks on commission house buying which touched off "stop-loss" orders on the upturn. Wheat was strong early on small mill buying, presumably reflecting army flour purchases, and reports of poor crop conditions in Canada.

STOCKS SCORE FURTHER GAINS

Continue Previous Day's Upward Trend; Rails Set Pace in Gains.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 16—Rails sparked an upturn in the stock market today and leading issues improved mildly in a continuation of Tuesday's recovery trend.

Driblets of liquidation were noted at times, however, and progress toward the fourth hour was confined generally to fractions with gains of more than a point scarce. Dealings were slow at intervals with occasional flurries.

Supported were Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Great Northern, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Anaconda, American Smelting, air Reduction, Westinghouse, General Electric, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Johns-Manville.

Rail bonds were higher and commodities were mixed.

Ahead in the curb were United Gas, Phoenix securities, American Gas & Electric and Arkansas Natural Gas "A."

EXHIBIT

the units this morning and he was assisted by Joseph Lilley of Columbia, Pa., shop foreman of the garage at the depot. He joined the depot staff last September and before coming here was employed at Marietta, Pa., and Voorhesville, N. Y., Army depots.

Crane Has Power

From the standpoint or overall length, the largest piece of machinery on display is an oddlooking type of crane called a "tournapull." This machine has a lifting capacity of 20 tons and is used chiefly around airports. Operator of the machine said it was capable of lifting a box car. The huge machine, more than 75 feet long when the lifting boom is extended, is equipped with 2,100 by 24 tires, 50 times as large as the ordinary passenger car tire.

Another interesting piece of equipment, but less conspicuous than the tournapull, is the bridge truck. This unit is no more than an ordinary five-ton truck equipped with a hydraulic hoist at the tail-gate. It is used by the engineers in placing and removing bridges in the field.

These two pieces along with several others are situated on the north side of the display grounds.

Located on the south side are a road grader, a shop truck, a sprinkler truck, a ton and a half truck pulling an eight-ton trailer on which is located a dismantled 20-foot assault boat, an air compressor truck and a barrage truck.

Unusual Inland Sight

The latter unit is probably one of the most interesting pieces on the grounds and most certainly is one which is least seen in cities as far inland as Marion. As its name implies the truck is used for raising and lowering barrage balloons. For each balloon which is anchored several hundred feet in the air one truck of this type is required. The truck acts as an anchor once the balloon is launched. It is equipped with a large reel in which is wound 1,500 feet of quarter-inch flexible cable. The unit produces its own gas and the launching and reeling-in apparatus is propelled by a power take-off which is operated from the cab of the truck.

In addition to the above-mentioned pieces of machinery also on display is a medium-sized bulldozer, several other types of cranes, an Army ambulance and a number of trucks and trailers.

Canteen Kitchen on Display

In connection with the display the Red Cross Emergency Canteen Kitchen, furnished by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., will be on display. From this unit the Marion county war bond committee will sell war bonds and stamps. The local chapter of the Red Cross will be in charge of the unit.

The Marion county USO organization headed by Mrs. Eugene B. Willey will also have a booth at the display.

LEGAL NOTICE

MARY CATHERINE CHEEN, residence unknown, will take notice that on June 7, 1943, John Waldo Green filed his petition against her in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio praying that he be divorced from her on grounds of Gross Neglect of Duty and Extreme Cruelty. Said cause will be for hearing in said Court on or after July 22, 1943. No. 27443.

War Production Chief Donald Nelson testified that "we are rapidly approaching the limit in our productive capacity in this country." He said the total output in 1943 would reach approximately $180,000,000,000 and said about half of it would be for direct war production.

Rubber Director William Jeffers reported that all the synthetic rubber plants should be in operation and producing by the end of the year, and that he was counting on an output of about 800,000 long tons of synthetic rubber next year.

He declared that there would be at the end of this year about 140,000 tons of synthetic and crude rubber, and estimated that production of synthetic rubber by early autumn of 1944 would reach the point where it could supply normal demands.

More Rationing Hinted

There was strong intimation, too, that the nation is in for some new rationing programs, but just when they will go into effect was left to speculation.

In charge of rationing for OPA, Louis J. Kroeger reported that there were eight programs under contemplation. He hinted that one of them may deal with coal.

"From both the military and the production point of view," he said, "I am convinced that we are in the midst of one of the greatest and most powerful developments in history—the development of an almost incredible striking power by means of aircraft."

"I can report to you that from now on expenditures for our air force will exceed by far the expenditures for any other single military category, reaching before the end of 1943 an annual rate of some tens of billions of dollars."

From Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown came the assertion that price control measures had saved the government $25,000,000,000 by the end of 1942, and that that amount would swell to $70,000,000,000 by the end of 1943 "if prices are held at current levels."

Travel Problems

Testimony of War Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman says that if wartime discomforts, plus a campaign to induce people to eliminate unessential travel, fail to accomplish the desired results, "we may have to dig down into our basket" for some system of priorities.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator, reported that the program for building merchant ships, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, envisions more than double the number and the tonnage of vessels in operation early this year.

Dr. George W. Taylor, vice chairman of the war labor board, declared the WLB intended to stick by the little steel formula "through thick and thin" despite anticipated pressure from workers for wage increases when the 20 per cent pay-as-you-go withholding tax goes into effect.

Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis said there is "considerable likelihood" that the United States will be subjected to air raids, both on the Pacific and on the northeastern coasts.

rog would be a place to strike from.

The Taganrog line must be watched.

There have been some funny goings on up around the Leningrad front recently and they may or may not indicate a German push in this direction.

Red Army Better

But — whatever the Germans do, the Germans will meet a better, stronger, more powerfully armed and commanded Red army this summer than in the past two summers.

The Red army of today is a very potent force. It is commanded by young brilliant generals—generals who like the offensive. And, of course, its guiding strategist is still Marshal Stalin, who many military men believe will go down in history as one of the world's greatest strategists.

If Hitler has been doing things all this time since the end of the winter offensive, you can be assured Tovarich Stalin—as the premier is called by everyone in the Soviet union from school child to ancient—has been up to something too.

I have just returned to the United States from Moscow and because of the obvious fact of military secrecy I can only say that from what I've seen—and frankly, it hasn't been a lot—Tovarich Stalin has been up to a considerable something.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

PHILIP VERITZEN started violently, then exploded into vehement speech.

"He dared to try to see her, to ask her to plead for him!" he said wrathfully. "It's a wonder Noel didn't chastise him again."

"That's what I'm trying to tell you," I said. "Noel didn't know that part of it. He knew only that Steve had complained to me, and he was angry enough at that. I shudder to think what he would have done if Steve had managed to see Mary."

"I probably would have found my only son in Homicide Court, he said heavily. 'I am very grateful to you for switching Steve from that track. And I shall add another black mark to the long list I have against him. But," he added, to my great relief, "I shall do nothing overt now. And if there is nothing I can do for you, I think I will go over and tell Oline that she is to hold herself in readiness for you."

Plans for Tomorrow

"She doesn't need to plan anything now," I told him. "Just tell her to relax until tomorrow morning, or better, have her come over here."

"Very well, I will have her do that," he said, and then, with his usual formal courtesy, he took his leave.

As he gave me a final bow from the corridor, Katherine suddenly rounded the corner, saving herself from colliding with him only by a quick side step.

"O, dear; I'm sorry!" she exclaimed as the famous impresario collected his dignity.

"It is I who should beg your pardon, my dear Katherine," he said, "Please forgive me."

"There is nothing to forgive," Katharine answered. "Perhaps I'll learn sometime, not to turn corners as if I were running a relay race."

With another bow, Veritzen went his way, and I drew Katharine inside, thankful that he was not looking back, for I could no longer control my laughter.

"If you must broadcast Alphonse and Gaston from my doorstep," I began, and Katharine giggled, a heart-warming sound to me, as it had been so long since I had heard any spontaneous merriment from her. It told me once more how great was her happiness at my father's promise of a reunion with her husband.

Wants to Know Plans

"There's nothing funnier in the world than a pompous, dignified man when he's in an undignified spot," she said. "He suffers, and how! But I haven't any sympathy to waste on him. I'm on fire to know whether I have to go to that Myers apartment at two tomorrow morning."

"I can ease your mind on that score, Katharine," my father's voice said from the doorway.

Startled, she whirled around to face him.

"Please don't think," she stammered "that I'm unwilling to go."

"Don't you know better than that, my dear?" he said gently. "You're willing to do anything I ask of you, but it isn't at all necessary for you to like it. And now let me assure you that you will not have to see Ruth Hayes tonight, or go near the Myers apartment."

Her breath of relief was almost a sob. But a second later, her anxiety for her husband prompted an agitated question.

"Is there any possible chance of her being able to carry out her threat of doing Jack any harm if I do not obey her summons?"

Hideaway Is Impregnable

"I do not believe she has any dive bombers at her command," he said, "and without one, neither she nor any one else has any chance to get at Jack or Georges. The secret rooms at the hideaway are impregnable. In many of its features, in fact, the hideaway is like those old gambling houses, with well-nigh perfect protection against raids.

"So," he concluded, "you can put your mind at ease about Jack. Ruth Hayes has no power to harm him. But what her malevolence may scheme out for you two when she finds herself thwarted tomorrow morning, is something else again."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Secretions of Stomach.

This week we have been discussing the value of the examination of the blood to the doctor who is making a diagnosis of his patient and have tried to tell something about the procedure he goes through in order to examine the blood. Today I wish to take up other laboratory methods of examination of different fluids of the body.

The medical profession and physiologists have been very ingenious in submitting every secretion, fluid and excretion, of the body to examination in health and disease. One of the first of the body secretions to be examined was the gastric juice—the secretion of the walls of the stomach during the process of digestion.

Attempts were made to obtain this as far back as the 18th Century when an ambitious German physician invented a kind of brush on the end of a long wire, which he poked down his patient's gullet and mopped up the inside of the stomach, very much like one of the instruments used to clean kitchen jars and bottle.

This method was not very satisfactory and the real beginning of gastric analysis was when a Dr. Kussmaul had a patient in his ward who was called Der Weiner (The Whiner). The poor thing whined all the time and for good reason, because she had an obstruction in her stomach and secretions dammed back and kept her, bloated. Dr. Kussmaul conceived the idea of putting a tube down and washing out her stomach, which gave her great relief. Remember, this was only a short a time ago as 1870. With this Kussmaul tube the stomach specialists were able to remove stomach contents and make a chemical and microscopical examination of them.

At rest the stomach is quite empty of all secretions and presents a dry and glistening surface. But almost immediately after the intake of food, secretion begins and within an hour it is almost at its height.

In the early period of analysis of the stomach contents, the juice was removed an hour after a small meal and many profound conclusions were adduced on the basis of this examination. In fact, before the x-ray began to be used to visualize the stomach, the analysis of the gastric juice was about the only stock in trade of the stomach specialist.

The specialty thrived in those palmy days. In fact, as I remember it, practically every other doctor on the North Side of Chicago was a stomach specialist when I spent my internship there. But in the course of time the general practitioners and general surgeons found out there wasn't very much value in the examination of the stomach contents.

The stomach specialists were prone to say that when a person had great deal of acid in his stomach contents, that meant he had ulcer and that when he had no acid at all, that meant he had cancer. But the surgeons soon found that sometimes there were cases of cancer of the stomach with plenty of acid and cases of ulcer with no acid at all and dependence on the pronouncements drawn from analysis of the gastric juice are taken very skeptically by the diagnostician today.

One fluid of the body which has proved of surprising value in the diagnostic examination is the cerebrospinal fluid. This is a clear, watery-looking fluid which surrounds the brain and spinal cord. When these are diseased, they are likely to pour dregs into the fluid, which can be detected by chemical and miscroscopical examination and which throw light on a great many conditions.
